TC Cherry School Along With BGMU Send Christmas Cards to Troops

TC Cherry School, BGMU's business/education partner, sends hometown Christmas cards to troops overseas.

With thousands of troops deployed overseas, BGMU along with students and teachers from TC Cherry School created nearly 300 Christmas cards for our troops. "This is one small way to thank some of our local soldiers who are stationed overseas this holiday season," said Mark Iverson, General Manager of BGMU.

BGMU contacted TC Cherry School and we organized the event together. "We both wanted to do something special for the troops. The students and teachers did all of the work," said Iverson.

"It was really touching to see the effort the kids put into their work," one teacher said. "The messages and the artwork were all very awesome. It really makes you feel good about being here."

"I think writing to the soldiers is important because it might cheer them up or make them feel close to home," one child wrote. "It is really amazing how something as simple as a card from a child can lift the spirits of a soldier," Iverson said.

Please don't forget the troops who are away from their loved ones during the holidays, guarding our freedoms.
